John Moniz

C4 Program Manager, Expeditionary Warfare/Combating Terrorism S&T Department
Office of Naval Research (ONR)

Moniz is currently the C4 Program Manager in the Expeditionary Warfare/Combating Terrorism S&T Department at the Office of Naval Research (ONR), a position he has held for the past eight years. His responsibilities include planning and managing the Naval Expeditionary Warfare 6.1, 6.2 and 6.3 programs in communications, networking, navigation and command and control.

Prior to this he was systems engineer for Phase I of the Enabling the Littoral Battlespace ACTD from 1996–2000. He came to ONR in 1994 to coordinate investment in Former Soviet Union technologies after a 15-year career in various solid propellant development technical, program management and supervisory positions.

Moniz holds a bachelor's degree in chemical engineering and a master's degree in information systems.
