Maj. Ryan Walker

Maj. Ryan Walker

Canadian Army Signals Officer

Maj. Ryan Walker joined the Canadian Forces in 1990 and has earned a BSc (Physics) CMR and MSc (Systems Engineering) Cranfield in 1995 and 2007.

As a junior officer, he gained tactical experience as a Brigade Signals Squadron Troop Commander, and as signals officer for a Light Infantry Battalion. As captain, Maj. Walker held staff officer positions in Northern Area Headquarters, and with the Canadian Forces Joint Signal Regiment. Upon promotion to major, he was appointed Officer Commanding 3 Squadron in charge of all heavy satellite communications.

Maj. Walker is currently a DPM for the Canadian Army ISTAR Project, Data Links Communications, and his operational experience includes both domestic and international, in particular Bosnia and Haiti.
